Autore	Matson Robert S.
Titolo	Applying genomic and proteomic microarray technology in drug discovery // Robert S. Matson
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Boca Raton : , : Taylor & Francis, , 2013
ISBN	0-429-10783-8 1-4398-5564-1
Edizione	[2nd ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (313 p.)
Disciplina	615.1/9
Soggetti	High throughput screening (Drug development) DNA microarrays Protein microarrays Pharmacogenomics Proteomics Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Nota di contenuto	Omics & microarrays revisited -- The commercial microarray -- Supports & surface chemistries -- The arraying process -- Gene expression microarray-based applications -- Protein microarray applications -- Multiplex assays.
Sommario/riassunto	Microarrays play an increasingly significant role in drug discovery. The commercial landscape has changed dramatically over the past few years and researchers have made great advancements with regard to construction and use. Now in its second edition, Applying Genomic and Proteomic Microarray Technology in Drug Discovery highlights, describes, and evaluates current scientific research using microarray technology in genomic and proteomic applications. Updated and revised to reflect recent progress in the field, the second edition discusses: Expanded omics-driven applications, including the areas

Sommario/riassunto	The comparison of sound sequences (words, morphemes) constitutes the core of many techniques and methods in historical linguistics. With the help of these techniques, corresponding sounds can be determined, historically related words can be identified, and the history of languages can be uncovered. So far, the application of traditional techniques for sequence comparison is very tedious and time-consuming, since scholars have to apply them manually, without computational support. In this study, algorithms from bioinformatics are used to develop computational methods for sequence comparison in historical linguistics. The new methods automatize several steps of the traditional comparative method and can thus help to ease the painstaking work of language comparison. Dissertations in Language and Cognition This series explores issues of mental representation, linguistic structure and representation, and their interplay. The research presented in this series is grounded in the idea explored in the Collaborative Research Center 'The structure of representations in language, cognition and science' (SFB 991) that there is a universal format for the representation of linguistic and cognitive concepts.
