ENGLISH DESCRIPTION

Mafias, money laundering, dark sexual escapades, detectives, murders... and a pregnant woman who has just ten days in order to take control of her destiny. Elena is a successful executive who is about to take on a Director position in the public relations firm where she currently works. And now, her pregnancy derails all her plans; she must rethink and make changes to a reality that only appeared to be in control. A thriller with a very original plot, fast, and fierce. An urban and contemporary story that touches upon motherhood in the workplace, joining the most intimate and personal feelings with today's most important current event subjects. This is a novel within the Domestic Noir genre, one that is becoming more and more appealing thanks to millions of readers in Europe and the United States
