Sommario/riassunto

This book is about the four common traits of successful money managers. Bringing the Ned Davis Research Group's insights and experience to the table, it's a dissection of what contributed to the stock market bubble of 2000 and a no-nonsense look into what is moving our economy right now. The economy model building process and analyses of stock and bond market timing are discussed in depth. According to Ned Davis, the business of speculating is largely psychological. As he states: "In case we are being swept up by the crowd or in case our own reality becomes badly distorted, what we need is
