

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910132431203321
Titolo	Islam, immigration, and identity // Todd Green (editor)
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Basel, Switzerland : , : MDPI, , 2014 ©2014
ISBN	9783906980607 390698060X 9783906980591
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (x, 262 pages) : illustrations (some colour); digital file (s)
Disciplina	305.697
Soggetti	Islam and international relations Islam and politics Emigration and immigration
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"This book is a reprint of the special issue that appeared in the online open access journal Religions (ISSN 2077-1444) in 2013" -- title page verso.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references.
Sommario/riassunto	It has been over two decades since Samuel P. Huntington, a Harvard political scientist, first published his famous essay, "The Clash of Civilizations?" In the essay, and later in his book with the same title (minus the question mark), Huntington argues that conflict in the post-Cold War era will be driven largely by irreconcilable cultural and religious differences, particularly in regards to Islam and the West. The conflict between these two civilizations, while not new, is bound to persist in large part because Islam is prone to violence. Much of the global conflict that exists in the modern world, observes Huntington, involves Muslims... The influence of Huntington's article on Western political and public discourse concerning Islam and its relationship to the West cannot be underestimated and these essays are dedicated to reconsidering his thesis.