Sommario/riassunto	CSI SE is a one day workshop composed of four sessions A morning session will be devoted to invited talks by top researchers, providing a broad overview of topics both in crowdsourcing in general and crowdsourcing applied to software engineering Two paper sessions will provide opportunities for authors to disseminate their work and interact with other researchers working in the area of crowdsourcing in software engineering The workshop will close with a highly interactive panel on Crowd development a new model for software development?, intended to explore controversial aspects of the promise and perils of applying microtask crowdsourcing to software development.
