Sommario/riassunto	It brings together texts by specialists in the areas of Health and Education with a long, competent and committed performance in the fight for social changes, concerned with a more solidary human (con) living. The work shows that it is possible to set up health services with sensitive professionals who are prepared to work in times of new technical requirements and professional training. By instigating (re) thinking about the technical and ethical improvement of work, with original and current ideas and proposals, it is certainly a relevant contribution for those who, directly or indirectly, are engaged in the cause of the Unified System of health.
