Sommario/riassunto	"Galicia 21: Journal of Contemporary Galician Studies is a refereed electronic journal co-sponsored by the Centre for Galician Studies in Wales (Bangor University) and Cardiff University. The journal seeks to bring together multidisciplinary approaches to those themes of current and growing interest within the field of Galician Studies. It places special emphasis on discussion and debate centred upon the thematic concerns of this expanding discipline in order to foster connections with neighbouring frameworks and approaches (Iberian and modern language studies, comparative literature, critical theory, etc). In addition to offering a new forum on a truly international plane of critical engagement, in which scholars may debate, question and critique existing paradigms of the field, this journal aims to expand and redefine the conceptual parameters of Galician Studies in the twenty-first century"--Statement page (publisher's Web site, viewed
