

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910144111703321
Autore	Ames Glenn Joseph
Titolo	Renascent empire? : the House of Braganza and the quest for stability in Portuguese monsoon Asia c.1640-1683 // Glenn J. Ames
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Amsterdam, : Amsterdam University Press, c2000
ISBN	1-281-97230-4 9786611972301 90-485-0358-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (263 pages)
Disciplina	325.3469095 900 950.3 950/.0971/2469
Soggetti	Portugal History 17th century Portugal History John IV, 1640-1656 Portugal History Afonso VI, 1656-1683 Portugal Colonies Asia History 17th century
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 215-226) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Introduction; I Priorities in the Reino, c. 1640-1683; II Politics and Policies: Viceroys and Governors, c. 1661-1681; III Christians: Saints and Sinners, c. 1640-1683; IV Spices: The Carreira da India, c. 1640-1683; V Administration: European Hierarchies and the Resiliency of Indigenous Structures, 1640-1683; VI Foreign Policy: Diplomatic Relations with the Reis Vizinhos and European Rivals, 1640-1683; VII An African Eldorado: The Quest for Wealth in Mozambique and the Rios de Cuama, c. 1640-1683; Conclusion Portuguese Asia, c. 1683; Bibliography; Notes; Index
Sommario/riassunto	"Based on extensive archival research in Portugal, India, England, and France, this work provides the first monographic study of a crucial, yet hitherto ignored period in the history of Portugal's Asian empire: the years ca. 1640-1683. Ames' revisionist work demonstrates that, contrary to the traditional view of the inevitable decline and stagnation of the Estado da India after ca. 1640, these were years of innovative and dynamic reform which brought about the geo-political and economic stabilization of Portuguese Asia by 1683. The book details this fundamental shift in Crown policy toward Asia as initiated by Prince Regent Pedro of Braganza (1668-1702) and carried out most effectively by Viceroy Luis de Mendonca Furtado e Albuquerque."--Jacket
