Excel Communications -- 14.3 Proper Protection of Computer-Related Software -- 14.3.1 How to Prepare a Proper Patent Application Covering Computer-Related Inventions -- 14.3.2 Claims -- 14.3.3 Determination of Whether a Computer-Related Invention Defines Patentable Subject Matter Under the Patent Laws -- 14.3.4 Functional Descriptive Material: "Data Structures"

Representing Descriptive Material per se or Computer Programs
Representing Computer Listings per se -- 14.3.5 Non-Functional Descriptive Material -- 14.3.6 Natural Phenomena Such As Electricity and Magnetism -- 14.4 Statutory Subject Matter -- 14.4.1 Types of Claimed Subject Matter -- 14.4.2 Safe Harbors -- 14.4.3 Computer-Related Processes Limited to a Practical Application in the Technological Arts -- 14.5 Preparing a Patent Application for the Computer-Related Invention -- 14.5.1 Claims of the Patent Application of a Computer-Related -- Invention Must Set Forth the Subject Matter the Inventor Considers as the Invention -- 14.5.2 Computer-Related Patent Application Must Contain an Adequate Written Description and an Enabling Disclosure -- 14.6 The Computer-Related Invention Must Still Be Novel and Non-Obvious -- 14.7 Computer Programming and a Sufficient Disclosure -- 14.7.1 What Constitutes an Adequate Disclosure in Computer Programming Patent Applications -- 14.7.2
Affidavit or Declaration Practice -- 14.7.3 Referencing Prior Art
Documents -- Hedy Lamarr -- 15 Patentability of Biotechnology Inventions -- 15.1 Development of Biotechnology -- 15.2 The Supreme Court, the U.S. Patent Office, and Biotechnology Inventions -- 15.3
DNA -- 15.4 Science, Religion, and Living Organism Patents.
15.5 Examples of Biotechnology Patent Claims -- 15.6 Enablement and Written Description Requirements in Biotechnology Patent Applications
-- 15.7 Biotechnology Industry and Patents -- 15.8 Medical Procedures
-- Rosalind Franklin, James Watson, Francis Crick, and Maurice Wilkins
-- 16 Business Method Protection -- 16.1 Business Methods Constitute Patentable Subject Matter -- 16.2 Foreign Business Method and Software Patents -- 16.3 Preparing a Proper Business Method Patent Application -- Wilbur and Orville Wright -- 17 Foreign Patent

Sommario/riassunto

An excellent text for clients to read before meeting with attorneys so they'll understand the fundamentals of patent, copyright, trade secret, trademark, mask work, and unfair competition laws. This is not a "do-it-yourself" manual but rather a ready reference tool for inventors or creators that will generate maximum efficiencies in obtaining, preserving and enforcing their intellectual property rights. It explains why they need to secure the services of IPR attorneys. Coverage includes employment contracts, including the ability of engineers to take confidential and secret knowledge to a new job, shop rights and information to help an entrepreneur establish a non-conflicting enterprise when leaving their prior employment. Sample forms of contracts, contract clauses, and points to consider before signing employment agreements are included. Coverage of copyright, software protection, and the Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) as well as the procedural variances in international intellectual property laws and procedures.
