Sommario/riassunto	This book examines the phenomenon of domestic violence and the criminal justice system's response to it in France. It delves into the 1992 French law addressing domestic violence, its implementation, and the roles of various judicial actors. Through quantitative and qualitative analysis, the book explores the criteria for case selection, the impact of alcohol on violent behavior, and the effectiveness of alternative judicial procedures. It also compares the French approach with that of Anglo-Saxon countries. Authored by Claudine Pérez-Diaz and Marie-Sylvie Huré, researchers at CNRS, the book aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of how the criminal justice system manages domestic violence cases and the broader societal implications.
