

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910154610303321
Autore	Bar-On Tamir
Titolo	Where have all the fascists gone? / / Tamir Bar-On ; with a preface by Roger Griffin
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London ; ; New York : , : Routledge, , 2016
ISBN	1-351-87313-X 1-315-23413-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (253 pages)
Disciplina	320.533094
Soggetti	Conservatism - Europe Fascism - Europe Right and left (Political science)
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	"First published 2007 by Ashgate Publishing"--t.p. verso.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	1. The ENR's historical and ideological origins : the right-wing roots -- 2. The ENR's birth and development in France : a new right? -- 3. The nouvelle droite in the 1980s and 1990s : opening to the left -- 4. The ENR and the legacy of May 1968 : a critical turning point -- 5. ENR influences and worldview : the primacy of metapolitics and the "right to difference" -- 6. Ambiguities in the ENR worldview -- 7. Interpreting the ENR -- 8. The influence of the nouvelle droite in Europe and beyond : a right-wing international? -- 9. The ENR's relationship to the extreme-right and neo-fascism -- 10. Treason of the intellectuals?
Sommario/riassunto	The Intellectual European New Right (ENR), also known as the nouvelle droite, is a cultural school of thought with origins in the revolutionary Right and neo-fascist milieux. Born in France in 1968, it situated itself in a Gramscian mould exclusively on the cultural terrain of political contestation in order to challenge the apparent ideological hegemony of dominant liberal and leftist elites. It also sought to escape the ghetto status of a revolutionary Right milieu wedded to violent extra-parliamentary politics and battered by the legacies of Fascism and Nazism. This study traces the cultural, philosophical, political and historical trajectories of the French nouvelle droite in particular and the ENR in general. It examines the ENR worldview as an ambiguous synthesis of the ideals of the revolutionary Right and New Left. ENR themes related to the loss of cultural identity and immigration have appealed to anti-immigrant political parties throughout Europe. In a post 9/11 climate, as well as an age of rising economic globalization and cultural homogenization, its anti-capitalist ideas embedded within the framework of cultural preservation might make further political inroads into the Europe of the future.

---