

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910155503803321
Autore	Shackleton Ernest
Titolo	South
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Sheba Blake Publishing, 2013
ISBN	1-304-66278-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (1104 p.)
Soggetti	Explorers Antarctica
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Sommario/riassunto	Ernest Shackleton was an Anglo-Irish explorer who is famous for his Arctic voyages, and for being a total badass. He made a number of trips south, including one in which he and his team made it a 100 or so miles from the South Pole. This was the closest anyone had gotten, and Shackleton would be knighted for his efforts. Soon enough he adventured south again on what was called the the Imperial Trans-Antarctic Expedition 1914-17. This disastrous and amazing tale is the focus of Shackleton's book South, a work of non-fiction whose thrilling adventure rivals the most vividly written fiction. Af