Sommario/riassunto	Re-release (2009) BookStrandTiffany Lovelace, famous for her erotic romance novels, relocates to a little town on the East Coast where a freak hurricane destroys her house. This forces her to take shelter in an old Gothic mansion owned by two brothers. One is dark and handsome, the other, a recluse. Her writer's curiosity, coupled with the need for a plot for her next book takes her out of her room, and down a deep tunnel of cracked cement steps. There, behind a barred door that locks, she finds an elusive creature with a scarred face. Knowing this, she is helplessly drawn into the midnight shadows where he lurks. What is there about this elusive phantom that fascinates her--this sinister silhouette whose glowing eyes burn with hunger when they look at her--this hulking creature that not only hides his face from her, but answers to the name of--Frankenstein!Content Notes: Hot
