Sommario/riassunto	Bah humbug...Christmas in Paris, Texas ain't all it's cracked up to be! Cozy Meadows, a middle school music teacher, is a little low on spirit this holiday season. After being abandoned by her fiance Finn Donovan months earlier, she's just not the same. When her werewolf friend Calla asks her to head up Hallow Moon Senior Center's Christmas recital for the Council of Elders and the residents of Paris, she dives in head first. What better way to keep her mind busy while she tries to get over the hunky Finn? Until Finn comes back to their hometown of Paris, Texas. Fresh from a stint in magic abuse prison, Finn behaves as though he didn't literally disappear the night of their engagement party. He's all smiles and still sexy as sin. Cozy's got her hands full with the wily seniors--who call themselves The Depends Patrol--and her feisty familiar Jorge, as she tries to navigate the return of Finn and keep track of the seniors and their shenanigans. But things get a whole lot worse when someone makes an attempt on her life. It's Christmas, daggonit! Shouldn't killers take at least one day off a year? Everything isn't as it seems, including a secret Cozy's kept most of her life. A secret that just may end up costing her that very life... Join USA Today bestselling paranormal romance author Dakota Cassidy for a laugh-out-loud Christmas romp full of intrigue, secrets, and magic in Book 4 of her bestselling A Paris, Texas Romance series.
