| Sommario/riassunto      | The Democrats are on the verge of going out of business as the Federalists and Whigs did in the 19th Century. What Should Be Done to Preserve the two party system? This structured analysis by the data and numbers comes from the author who predicted Trump would win but also wrote a book about Bernie Sanders: What If He Wins? The 3 books are nuanced, not side taking, pointing out the data is working against the Democrats as the Republicans have the National Trifecta (Presidency and both Houses of Congress) as well as 25 state trifectas, 33 of 50 governors, and 68 of 99 State Legislature. The Fire Bell in the Night is about the 2018 election when 25 Democrat Senators must | defend their seats with 11 in Trump states, meaning the Senate could be come veto proof if they merely win 8 and hold their own.
