Sommario/riassunto	Montana Alpha Beaux Nelson believes in living his life the way werewolves were meant to--as naturally and free as possible. He honors the moon with every hunt and breath in his body. When he discovers his true mate is the healer of another pack, he's determined nothing will come between them--not even her kidnapping. Pursuing her across the continent, Beaux will take any risk to claim the woman meant for him...but surviving her rejection is another matter. Lake Fennell has never thrived as a healer should, her gift acts out, she changes others without their permission and has failed to save those precious to her. When she discovers Beaux may very well be her true mate, she flees rather than face the possibility. In her haste, she falls into the arms of the True Believers. Months of torture later, she can barely believe it when she wakes to find herself with the one man she shouldn't want and can never have. In order to save them both, she must leave her true mate, knowing she might not leave his heart intact. But if she doesn't do what she was born to do, everything will be lost... including the world she's fought the hardest for.
