Sommario/riassunto	When museum curator Savannah Decatur trades in her job at a prestigious New York museum to set up a museum in the tiny town of Wolf Creek, New Hampshire, she resolves to use the isolation and enticement of the mysterious old manor to put the heartbreaking past year behind her. And her plan starts out great - until she meets a major distraction in the form of Daniel Harrison. On sabbatical from teaching criminology, Professor Harrison is in a race against time to uncover the secrets of Alder Manor and finish his dissertation. When Daniel meets Savannah, he instantly knows two things: Savannah's work is stirring up Wolf Creek's secrets and he must have her for himself. While Savannah agrees to team up with Daniel to find the answers they're both seeking, she is resolute in avoiding her attraction to him. As danger brings them closer together and dead ends impede their progress, they are desperate to resolve the longstanding dispute between the local Maliut Indian tribe and the residents of Wolf Creek. But what they learn about this centuries-old mystery is a gamechanger. Now they must convince both sides to work together before someone else gets hurt...
