

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910158570403321
Autore	Davies Ross <1942-, >
Titolo	Women and work // Ross Davies
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Abingdon, Oxon : , : Routledge, , 2017
ISBN	1-351-98695-3 1-315-27206-7 1-351-98696-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (194 pages)
Collana	Routledge Library Editions : Women and Business ; ; Volume 9
Disciplina	331.40941
Soggetti	Women - Employment - Great Britain
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	First published in 1975 by Hutchinson & Co (Publishers) Ltd.
Nota di contenuto	1. Working women today : a wasted resource -- 2. Pre-industrial woman -- 3. The Industrial Revolution -- 4. Trade unions : men only -- 5. The professions close ranks -- 6. The two world wars : votes and jobs -- 7. Women's attitudes to work -- 8. Work's attitudes to women -- 9. Women and the professions today : too little, too late -- 10. Married women : burying the talents -- 11. Second thoughts set in -- 12. Equality and the law.
Sommario/riassunto	In this book, first published in 1975, the author examines the role of women in the workforce. Despite representing a rapidly increasing section of the workforce, why are women still overwhelmingly confined to unskilled jobs? Why do they hold such a tiny proportion of managerial and professional posts? In answering these vital questions Ross Davies shows how women's economic roles in pre-industrial society were modified and distorted by industrialisation; how this legacy of exploitation has affected contemporary attitudes among both men and women; and how the present situation should be seen and assessed in its proper perspective.