

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910158809503321
Autore	Haggerty USN LCDR Brian J
Titolo	Conduct And Support Of Amphibious Operations From United States Submarines In World War II
Pubbl/distr/stampa	San Francisco : , : Verdun Press, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	9781786252890 1786252899
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (90 pages)
Soggetti	Submarines (Ships) Amphibious warfare
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Nota di contenuto	Intro -- TABLE OF CONTENTS -- ABSTRACT -- ACKNOWLEDGMENTS -- LIST OF CHARTS -- LIST OF PHOTOS -- INTRODUCTION -- USS ARGONAUT & -- USS NAUTILUS LANDINGS ON MAKIN -- FIVE SUBMARINES ASSIST AFRICA LANDINGS -- USS NARWHAL & -- USS NAUTILUS LANDINGS ON ATTU -- CONCLUSION -- BIBLIOGRAPHY -- Archival Sources -- Published Primary Sources, Articles and Memoirs -- Secondary Source Books -- Monographs and Theses -- Other Articles -- Websites and Other Media.
Sommario/riassunto	This monograph by LCDR Brian J. Haggerty explores the role of U.S. submarines in conducting and supporting amphibious operations during World War II. It analyzes three significant operations: the raid on Makin Atoll, the landings during Operation Torch on the northwest African coast, and the landings on Attu Island in the Aleutian chain. The author highlights the evolution of submarine capabilities, particularly their adaptation for Special Operations Forces (SOF). The study provides insights into the strategic value, challenges, and benefits of using submarines for such missions, contributing to the broader understanding of naval power and warfare. Intended for military historians and naval strategists, this book underscores the importance of historical knowledge in shaping modern military practices.

