

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910702354803321
Titolo	Photovoltaic (PV) pricing trends [[electronic resource]] : historical, recent, and near-term projections / / David Feldman ... [and others]
Pubbl/distr/stampa	[Washington, D.C.] : , : SunShot, U.S. Department of Energy, , 2012
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (vi, 22 pages) : color illustrations
Collana	NREL/TP ; ; 6A20-56776
Altri autori (Persone)	HarpDavid
Soggetti	Photovoltaic power systems - Economic aspects Photovoltaic power generation - Economic aspects
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Title from title screen (viewed on Dec. 10, 2012) "SunShot U.S. Dept. of Energy." "Technical report DOE/GO-102012-3839." "November 2012." "This technical report is a joint project of the National Renewable Energy Laboratory ... and Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory ..."--P. [30].
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (pages 19-21).

2. Record Nr.	UNINA9910159496303321
Autore	Hongci Xu
Titolo	No Wall Too High : One Man's Daring Escape From Mao's Darkest Prison
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Tantor Audio
ISBN	1-5159-9061-3
Disciplina	365/.45092 B
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Musica
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Sommario/riassunto	Mao Zedong's labor reform camps were notoriously brutal; modeled after the Soviet gulag, their inmates were subject to backbreaking labor, malnutrition, and vindictive wardens. They were thought to be impossible to escape-but one man did.Xu Hongci, a young medical student, was a loyal member of the Communist Party until he fell victim to Mao Zedong's Anti-Rightist Campaign in 1957. After posting a criticism of the party, he spent the next fourteen years in the labor camps. Despite horrific conditions and terrible odds, Hongci was determined to escape, failing three times before he succeeded in 1972. Originally published in Hong Kong, Hongci's remarkable memoir recounts his life from childhood through his prison break. After discovering the book in a Hong Kong library, the journalist Erling Hoh tracked down the original manuscript and compiled this abridged translation of Hongci's memoir, which includes background on this turbulent period and an epilogue following Hongci up to his death in 2008. Almost nobody was able to escape from Mao's labor camps, but No Wall Too High tells the true story of someone who did.