

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910160683503321
Autore	Mardis Annette
Titolo	The Shore Thing
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Liquid Silver Books
ISBN	1-62210-132-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (276 p.)
Soggetti	Romance fiction Professional relationships
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Sommario/riassunto	Once bitten and twice shy about workplace romances, Florida aquarium employees Dani Davidson and Evan Sanders are determined to resist their mutual attraction. A baby dolphin and a stingray encounter help bring them together, but will a bitter ex-lover, Dani's inhibitions, and Evan's career aspirations tear them apart? Find out in Annette Mardis' great new romance, The Shore Thing.Danielle "Dani" Davidson vows to just say no to workplace romances after her first post-college job is soured by a messy breakup with a manipulative coworker. That's just one reason she doesn't trust any man with her heart, let alone one who swims with sharks for a living. So why can't she get Evan Sanders out of her mind?Evan is twice shy, too, after an alluring but self-absorbed colleague takes a bite out of his heart. Though he's dead set against dating anyone else he works with, he's still intrigued by Dani's intelligence, shyness, and low-key sexiness.Dani leads tours and educates guests, and Evan is the chief photographer/videographer at an aquarium and marine animal hospital in the west-central Florida town of Gulf Shore. Their attraction smolders until an unfortunate encounter with a stingray sends Dani to the emergency room and Evan steps up to help her through her recovery.The two also bond over the rescue of an orphaned baby dolphin. But will Evan's vindictive ex-lover, his career ambitions, and Dani's inhibitions tear the young lovers apart? Content Notes: Sweet, Contemporary

