Sommario/riassunto	Seymour Goldfarb is afraid of a lot of things, and he hides his fears from the world with quick thinking. When his cousin Pessach comes to visit from Israel, however, Seymour meets his match while trying to show a 'normal' guy how Americans have fun."Have you ever been really afraid of something? So that your hands were sweating and you got this terrible feeling in the pit of your stomach? Well that's how it is for Seymour. This is one of those books everyone wants to read...couldn't be better."--The Booktalker
