Sommario/riassunto

The book is a detailed account of the Peninsular War as experienced by F. S. Larpent, Esq., Judge Advocate General of the British Forces, who was attached to the headquarters of Lord Wellington. It offers insights into military operations, personal observations, and the challenges faced by the troops during the conflict. The journal entries provide a vivid picture of the strategic movements, the conditions faced by soldiers, and the political dynamics of the time. Edited by Sir George Larpent, the work serves as a valuable historical document that sheds light on the internal workings of the British military and the broader geopolitical context of the early 19th century. Intended for historians and military enthusiasts, the book captures the spirit and struggles of the era.
