Sommario/riassunto

This third volume of the History of the Peninsular War by Charles Oman covers the critical period from September 1809 to December 1810, detailing major military events such as the campaigns of Ocaña, Cadiz, Bussaco, and the strategic Lines of Torres Vedras. Focusing on the strategies and movements of both the French and Allied forces, led by figures like Wellington and Masséna, the book examines the turning point in the war, highlighting Wellington's defensive strategies in Portugal. Intended for historians and military enthusiasts, it provides a comprehensive analysis of the military, political, and social impacts of the war during this pivotal time.
