Sommario/riassunto	The Little and the Great Things includes reading of the eponymous prayer followed by beautiful piano music based on original composition of Frederic Chopin. Piano composition includes: Nocturne in G Major, Op. 37 No. 2 -- Andantino. A nocturne painted with Chopin's most ethereal brush characterised by beautiful sensuousness, luscious, soft, rounded tones, and not without a certain degree of languor. Something of the warmer Mediterranean climate gently flows into the composer's pen here perhaps reflective on Chopin's stay on the island of Majorca. And example of Chopin's music acting as an aphrodisiac. Performed by Anton Kingsbury.
