Sommario/riassunto	From his earliest memories, Charles M. Schulz knew that all he wanted to do was "draw funny pictures." Schulz was born in Minneapolis, Minnesota, in 1922, and his love for cartoons was fostered by his father in a shared appreciation for the Sunday funnies. As a senior in high school, at the prompting of his mother, he completed a correspondence cartoon course with the Federal School of Applied Cartooning. Schulz continued his studies in art as the genre of the cartoon began to change-adopting simplistic, minimalistic styles that, conveniently, allowed Schulz to showcase his dry, self-effacing
