| Sommario/riassunto      | Thirteen peer-reviewed papers address many of the latest challenges to the agrochemical formulations industry, including lower dose products, stringent safety criteria, convenience, increased efficiency of application, and improved cost competitiveness and product differentiation. Sections cover: Developments in Formulation Technology: eight papers focus on novel formulation types, new ingredients, and formulation evaluations. Adjuvants and Application Technology: five papers focus on materials added to improve the effectiveness of agrochemical formulations and experimental methodologies to understand the actual application. |
