Sommario/riassunto

Laying the Foundation: Digital Humanities in Academic Libraries examines the library's role in the development, implementation, and instruction of successful digital humanities projects. It pays special attention to the critical role of librarians in building sustainable programs. It also examines how libraries can support the use of digital scholarship tools and techniques in undergraduate education. Academic libraries are nexuses of research and technology; as such, they provide fertile ground for cultivating and curating digital scholarship. However, adding digital humanities to library service models requires a clear understanding of the resources and skills required. Integrating digital scholarship into existing models calls for a reimagining of the roles of libraries and librarians. In many cases, these reimagined roles call for expanded responsibilities, often in the areas of collaborative instruction and digital asset management, and in turn these expanded responsibilities can strain already stretched resources. Laying the Foundation provides practical solutions to the challenges of successfully incorporating digital humanities programs into existing library services. Collectively, its authors argue that librarians are critical resources for teaching digital humanities to undergraduate students and that libraries are essential for publishing, preserving, and making accessible digital scholarship.

Sommario/riassunto	En février 1946, Geneviève Massignon, la fille du grand orientaliste Louis Massignon, a 24 ans. Elle part affronter le rude hiver canadien pour y conduire une étude sur le parler acadien, prenant note de tous les contes et de toutes les chansons populaires qu'elle peut recueillir dans cette province canadienne francophone. Puis, en 1961, à la veille de sa soutenance de thèse, elle décide de retourner sur les lieux, munie cette fois d'un matériel d'enregistrement plus fiable. Elle récolte ainsi plus de 500 chansons, qu'elle classe par thèmes. Elle meurt en 1966 sans avoir achevé l'édition de son étude, et son frère, Daniel Massignon, fait don en 1988 à la Phonothèque nationale de ces enregistrements et notes manuscrites. C'est le folkloriste Georges Delarue qui prendra en charge l'édition définitive de cet ouvrage dont le premier volume contient les textes de 50 chansons présentées avec toutes leurs variantes, conservées, vivifiées et transformées dans les provinces maritimes du Canada et le Madawaska américain. Elles sont accompagnées de commentaires détaillés visant à les situer dans leur histoire et leur devenir. Les mélodies, présentées dans le second volume, sont chaque fois notées avec une très grande précision permettant une analyse mélodique fouillée. Pour chaque chanson, une bibliographie détaillée ainsi que diverses remarques dans les commentaires permettent de la situer par rapport à ses homologues recueillies sur le territoire français.
