Sommario/riassunto	As a theological publication, this journal will be both stimulating and challenging to a wide audience. It is our hope that the journal's articles will cultivate a renewed interest in the Scriptures as well as the historic, orthodox faith of the church of Jesus Christ. Whether your interest lies in biblical, historical, or systematic studies, you will find articles that will fuel the mind, inflame the heart, and promote practical godliness. Each issue will also offer articulate book reviews intended to promote sound Christian materials which echo the theology and biblical piety we strive for at Puritan Reformed Theological Seminary. - Publisher.
