

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910306642003321
Autore	Jordan Tim
Titolo	Information politics : liberation and exploitation in the digital society / / Tim Jordan
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London : , : Pluto Press, , 2015 ©2015
ISBN	1-78371-297-X 1-78371-296-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (240 p.)
Collana	Digital Barricades: Interventions in Digital Culture and Politics
Disciplina	302.231
Soggetti	Internet - Political aspects Internet - Social aspects Information society - Politics and government
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction : information as a politics -- Part 1. Theory of information power. Recursion -- Technologies' embrace -- Network and protocol theory : dis/organising information power -- Part 2. Platforms. Clouds -- Securitisation of the Internet -- Social media networks -- Part 3. Battlegrounds. Battlegrounds and the iPad -- Death and gaming -- Hacktivism : operation Tunisia, modular tactics and information activism -- Conclusion : information exploitation and information liberation.
Sommario/riassunto	Conflict over information is a central part of twenty-first century life. Tim Jordan examines the nature of an information politics that has emerged with the rise of mass digital cultures and the internet. He located it within a field of power and rebellion that is populated by social and political struggles. This book is the ideal place to start for anyone approaching the rapidly changing terrain of digital culture and conflict. -- from back cover.