Sommario/riassunto	"The University of Chicago Law Review Dialogue is the new source for online content published by The University of Chicago Law Review. Beginning in 2013, The University of Chicago Law Review proudly continues its heritage of providing cutting-edge and topical legal scholarship to the legal community through publishing online exclusive articles. This online platform will bring leading academics from around the legal community together to discuss recent scholarship and current events impacting the legal field. The name Dialogue was inspired by the purpose of this platform, to inspire a genuine and timely exchange of ideas in legal scholarship. Through Dialogue, The University of Chicago Law Review looks forward to cultivating a new process by which academics and practitioners can teach, learn, and inspire in much the same way that law reviews have inspired scholarly dialogues for generations. We sincerely await the dialogues to come."
