Sommario/riassunto	Entre fascination et peur, enthousiasme et hostilité, la nouvelle migration chinoise questionne. Les travaux sur « la Chine en Afrique » ont occulté l'importance de l'émergence de la Chine pour ses voisins les plus proches. Cette omission est particulièrement flagrante dans le cas de l'Asie du Sud-Est qui a toujours été le principal théâtre des engagements commerciaux de la Chine avec le monde. Considérée comme l'arrière-cour naturelle de la Chine, l'Asie du Sud-Est est un laboratoire complexe et hétérogène des circulations et des identités en construction à l'aube du « siècle chinois ». La question des relations entre la Chine et le reste du monde est tantôt pensée en termes de domination, de menace, d'exploitation, et de soutien aux régimes autoritaires, tantôt en termes d'aubaine et d'opportunités de développement. Cette recherche propose de dépasser cette approche binaire en décrivant les stratégies mises en œuvre par les acteurs locaux pour atténuer l'inégalité des rapports de force, négocier l'asymétrie, contourner l'hégémonie, embrasser, résister ou manipuler les termes dictés par les capitaux chinois. Le présent Carnet, centré sur les pays de l'ancienne Indochine française - le Cambodge, le Viêt Nam et le Laos - constitue la première étape d'un projet éditorial plus large qui se donne pour ambition de relever ce défi.

Sommario/riassunto	This book explores the current state of society in Europe in general and the regimes and societies of the Western Balkans in particular. The pandemic and near-universal lockdown have provided an ideal cut-off date for the collection of indices from reputable academic sources that cover the nature of these regimes, individual human freedoms, economic freedoms, the rule of law, human rights and media freedoms. The aggregated findings from the 20 individual indices provide comprehensive data to support original findings and the characterisation of societies in 45 European states. Admittedly, there are differences in the methodologies and samples among the indices consulted. Nonetheless, taken together they offer a solid basis for developing arguments concerning the diversity of regimes, governance and societies in Europe and drawing well-founded conclusions on the nature of society in various parts of Europe. Though the book's main focus is on the Western Balkans, the region is put in a pan-European context. The issues of migration, minorities, global geopolitics, the crisis of liberal democracy – they all play into developments that are specific to the Western Balkans. The book answers the question of whether the pandemic has allowed local regimes to strengthen their power and exert greater control over society, making it possible to formulate arguments regarding the future of Europe and its integrative processes. In closing, the book investigates Western Balkan regimes' reactions to the pandemic in the context of governance, society and state power, before addressing the question of whether the future of the Western Balkans lies in the "liberal club", or whether local hybrid regimes will become even more influential in the near future.
