Sommario/riassunto	We are glad to present, also this year, STAST, the Workshop on Socio-Technical Aspects in Security and Trust. The workshop, in its 7th edition, is once more time and proudly co-located with the Annual Computer Security Applications Conference (ACSAC). At its conception, STAST has been thought as a forum for researchers who are interested in security and have 14 the challenge to develop an interdisciplinary understanding of the subject, being them computer scientists venturing in other domains or the vice-versa, other domains' experts interested in steering their research to include security aspects.
