

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910409837003321
Autore	Panek Isabel
Titolo	Tracing and Documenting Nazi Victims Past and Present // Henning Borggräfe, Christian Höschler, Isabel Panek
Pubbl/distr/stampa	De Gruyter, 2020 München ; ; Wien : , : De Gruyter Oldenbourg, , [2020] ©2020
ISBN	9783110661651 3110661659 9783110665376 3110665379
Edizione	[1st ed.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (VIII, 342 p.)
Collana	Arolsen Research Series ; ; 1
Classificazione	ND 1430
Disciplina	943.086
Soggetti	Holocaust International Tracing Service National Socialism Persecution HISTORY / Europe / Germany History Sources. Germany
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	Frontmatter -- Preface -- Table of Contents -- Tracing and Documenting Nazi Victims Past and Present -- Introduction -- On the Uses and Disadvantages of the Arolsen Archives for History -- The (Early) Search for Missing Nazi Victims -- Family Searching and Tracing Services of JDC in the Second World War Era -- Those Left Behind -- Tracing Services in Poland and Czechoslovakia after 1945 -- Survivors Helping Survivors -- Caring for the Dead and the Living -- Yad Vashem and Holocaust Victim's Search for Family -- ITS Research at the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum for Descendants of Holocaust Victims and Survivors -- The New Tasks and Challenges for Tracing --

Collections Archives Dealing with Nazi Victims -- From Tracing and Fate Clarification to Research Center -- "It is our job to find out who did what." -- The Federal Archives and its Role in German Politics of Remembrance -- Institutes of National Remembrance and their Role in Dealing with National Socialism -- Linking and Enriching Archival Collections in the Digital Age -- Contributors

---

Sommario/riassunto

After World War II, tracing and documenting Nazi victims emerged against the background of millions of missing persons and early compensation proceedings. This was a process in which the Allies, international aid organizations, and survivors themselves took part. New archives, documentation centers and tracing bureaus were founded amid the increasing Cold War divide. They gathered documents on Nazi persecution and structured them in specialized collections to provide information on individual fates and their grave repercussions: the loss of relatives, the search for a new home, physical or mental injuries, existential problems, social support and recognition, but also continued exclusion or discrimination. By doing so, institutions involved in this work were inevitably confronted with contentious issues—such as varying political mandates, neutrality vs. solidarity with those formerly persecuted, data protection vs. public interest, and many more. Over time, tracing bureaus and archives changed methods and policies and even expanded their activities, using historical documents for both research and public remembrance. This is the first publication to explore this multifaceted history of tracing and documenting past and present.

---