

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910437963803321
Titolo	Interdisciplinary applications of the person-centered approach // Jeffrey H.D. Cornelius-White, Renate Motschnig-Pitrik, Michael Lux, editors
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York, : Springer, 2013
ISBN	1-4614-7144-3
Edizione	[1st ed. 2013.]
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (261 p.)
Altri autori (Persone)	Cornelius-WhiteJeffrey H Motschnig-PitrikRenate LuxMichael
Disciplina	616.8914
Soggetti	Client-centered psychotherapy Psychotherapy
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction to Interdisciplinary Applications -- An Experiential Example of the Person-Centered Approach: Carl Rogers Work -- Person-Centered and Experiential Psychotherapies: An overview -- Motivational Interviewing and Client-Centered Therapy -- Linking the Person-Centered Approach to the Arts: Person-Centered Expressive Arts Therapy and Empowerment -- Person-centered work in services for people in need of everyday care -- Counseling the Sai Way -- Person-Centred Medicine and Subjectivity -- The Learner-Centered Model: Vision for the Future -- The Person-Centered Approach in Adult Education -- Characteristics and Effects of Person-Centered Technology Enhanced Learning -- Ubiquitous Educational Computing and Learner-Centered Instruction: A Likely Pair -- Foundational Oppression: Families and Schools -- The Person-Centered Approach in Family Education -- Successful Management with the Person-Centered Approach: Building the Bridge to Business -- Person-Centered Approach: Theory and Practice in a Nontherapeutic Context -- A Person-Centered-Approach to Innovation Management: Experiences and Learnings -- The Person-Centred Approach and its Capacity to EnhanceConstructive International Communication -- Conflict Transformation -- PCA Encounter Groups: Transformative learning for individuals and communities -- Staying Human: Experiences of a Therapist and Political Activist -- The Person-Centered Approach: An Emergent Paradigm.

---

Sommario/riassunto

The hallmark of Carl Rogers' work, the Person-Centered Approach (PCA), has long had a major impact on psychological research and clinical practice. Currently, as more diverse professionals recognize the relevance of humanistic thought to their fields, it is enjoying a wider diversity of applications across disciplines, populations, and settings. Interdisciplinary Applications of the Person-Centered Approach unfolds client-centered concepts into real-world contexts. The versatility and power of person-centered practice are on full display in an engaging integrative framework, featuring extended examples, practical guidelines, and graphic concept maps. Renowned scholar-practitioners illustrate innovative applications as diverse as motivational interviewing, parent training, learner-centered instruction, and peace negotiations to promote cross-disciplinary dialogue and collaboration, and potentially to solve larger societal problems. Support for the PCA spans a variety of areas including:

- Clinical applications in psychotherapy and medicine.
- Education, including elementary, higher, adult, and e-learning.
- Child, family, and lifespan studies.
- Business, management, leadership, and coaching.
- Conflict resolution and constructive communication.

Interdisciplinary Applications of the Person-Centered Approach complements its companion volume, Interdisciplinary Handbook of the Person-Centered Approach: Research and Theory, by enlightening researchers and practitioners who want to broaden their academic and clinical horizons. Both are significant resources for researchers in a variety of sciences, such as psychology, neuroscience, therapy, education, communication, and medicine, and for students of humanistic psychology.

---