

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910449792803321
Titolo	Plantations, privatization, poverty and power : changing ownership and management of state forests // edited by Mike Garforth and James Mayers
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London ; ; Sterling, Va. : , : Earthscan, , 2005
ISBN	1-4175-8325-8 1-136-55966-3 1-280-47514-5 9786610475148 1-84977-220-7 600-00-0065-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (328 p.)
Collana	The Earthscan forestry library
Altri autori (Persone)	GarforthMichael MayersJames
Disciplina	333.75/11
Soggetti	Forest reserves - Management Tree farms - Management Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [272]-288) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Cover; Plantations, Privatization, Poverty and Power; Copyright; Contents; List of Figures, Tables and Boxes; List of Acronyms and Abbreviations; Executive Summary; Acknowledgements; Introduction; Part 1: Opportunities, Challenges and Solutions: An Overview; Chapter 1. Plantations, Livelihoods and Poverty; Plantation goods and services; Economy, livelihoods and poverty; Changing ownership and management; Private profit versus public good; Chapter 2 Plantation Development and Management: Drives, Governance and Changing Roles; Drivers of plantation development Governance of sustainable plantation development and managementChanging roles; Chapter 3. Balancing Acts; Opporunities demonstrated by experience; Key challenges; 'Best bet' practical instruments and processes; Chapter 4. Conclusions and Ways Forward; Changing ownership and management: What are the benefits?;

Stumbling blocks; Ways forward; Part 2: Country Case Studies; Chapter 5. A Mixed Economy Commonwealth of States: Australia; Introduction: People and forests in a dry continent; Legislation and policy; Australia's plantation industries
Current utilization and management of state-owned plantations Private plantations; Evolving demands and roles; Reconciling public-policy objectives and private-sector investment; Lessons from Australia's experience; Conclusions; Chapter 6. Early Experience of Total Divestment; Geography and demography; The forestry sector: Some basic facts; A brief history of state-owned plantations; Evolving demands and changing roles; Reconciling public-policy objectives and private-sector investment; Lessons from Chile's experience; Conclusions and ways forward
Chapter 7. From Centrally Planned Economy to Vigorous Rural Enterprise Introduction; Basic statistics and future outlook; Historical overview; Development and status of the collective forests; Development of the state-owned forests; Conclusions; Prognosis; Chapter 8. Joint Management of State Forest Lands; Introduction; Overview of the Indian forestry sector; Commercial forestry and plantations; Evolving demands and changing roles; Changing roles of the private sector; Potential for strengthening private-sector contribution on state forest lands; Conclusions and ways forward
Chapter 9. Corporatization, Commercialization and Privatization New Zealand's forests and plantations in 2003; Regulation, legislation and policy; Plantation development in New Zealand: A brief history; Evolving demands and roles for plantations; Balancing acts: Reconciling public-sector investment; Lessons from New Zealand's experience; Conclusions and ways forward; Chapter 10. Juggling Social and Economic Goals: South Africa; Introduction; The creation of a national forest estate; Regulatory and incentive framework for private-sector forestry; Changing demands on state-owned plantations
The approach to privatization

Sommario/riassunto

"Examines the evidence and explores the many issues raised by changing relationships between the state, the private sector and local livelihoods. Key lessons in how governments can best achieve a balance between private and public involvement are provided by seven case studies from Australia, China, Chile, India, New Zealand, South Africa and the United Kingdom"--Provided by publisher.
