

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910450629603321
Autore	Brown Melissa J
Titolo	Is Taiwan Chinese? [[electronic resource]] : the impact of culture, power, and migration on changing identities // by Melissa J. Brown
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Berkeley, : University of California Press, c2004
ISBN	0-520-92794-X 9786612759000 1-59734-687-X 1-282-75900-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (353 p.)
Collana	Berkeley series in interdisciplinary studies of China ; ; 2
Disciplina	305.89/925
Soggetti	Taiwan aborigines - Ethnic identity - History Ethnicity - Taiwan - History Ethnicity - China - History - 20th century Nationalism - Taiwan - History - 20th century Nationalism - China - History - 20th century Chinese reunification question, 1949- Tujia (Chinese people) - China - Enshi Tujiazu Miaozi Zizhizhou - Ethnic identity - History - 20th century Electronic books. Taiwan Relations China China Relations Taiwan Enshi Tujiazu Miaozi Zizhizhou (China) Ethnic relations History 20th century
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	What's in a name? : culture, identity, and the "Taiwan problem" -- Where did the aborigines go? : reinstating plains aborigines in Taiwan's history -- "We savages didn't bind feet" : culture, colonial intervention, and long-route identity change -- "Having a wife is better than having a god" : ancestry, governmental power, and short-route identity change -- "They came with their hands tied behind their backs" : forced migrations, identity changes, and state classification in Hubei --

Theory and politics : understanding choices at the border to Han.

Sommario/riassunto

The "one China" policy officially supported by the People's Republic of China, the United States, and other countries asserts that there is only one China and Taiwan is a part of it. The debate over whether the people of Taiwan are Chinese or independently Taiwanese is, Melissa J. Brown argues, a matter of identity: Han ethnic identity, Chinese national identity, and the relationship of both of these to the new Taiwanese identity forged in the 1990's. In a unique comparison of ethnographic and historical case studies drawn from both Taiwan and China, Brown's book shows how identity is shaped by social experience-not culture and ancestry, as is commonly claimed in political rhetoric.

2. Record Nr.

UNINA9910688208703321

Titolo

Pseudomonas aeruginosa : Biofilm Formation, Infections and Treatments // edited by Theerthankar Das

Pubbl/distr/stampa

London : , : IntechOpen , , 2021

Descrizione fisica

1 online resource (114 pages)

Disciplina

616.0145

Soggetti

Pseudomonas aeruginosa infections

Lingua di pubblicazione

Inglese

Formato

Materiale a stampa

Livello bibliografico

Monografia

Sommario/riassunto

Emerging antibiotic resistance of bacteria is driving us to catastrophic failure of the healthcare system. Pseudomonas aeruginosa is one such pathogen that is responsible for causing nosocomial infections, urinary tract infections, cystic fibrosis, otitis media, and infections of wounds and burns. P. aeruginosa is a critical pathogen as defined by the World Health Organization (WHO) due to its intrinsic and adaptive competence to defy antibiotics and persist as a superbug. This book covers a wide array of subjects relevant to bacterial biofilms specifically focusing on

P. aeruginosa and associated infections. It provides readers with a clear and comprehensive overview of biofilm formation and associated detrimental impacts. In addition, this book also examines topics related to biosynthesis virulence factors by P. aeruginosa to facilitate biofilm formation, antibiotic resistance mechanisms, and infections.
