

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910451154503321
Autore	Adjibolosoo Senyo B-S. K
Titolo	Developing civil society [[electronic resource]] : social order and the human factor // Senyo Adjibolosoo
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Aldershot, England ; ; Burlington, VT, : Ashgate, c2006
ISBN	1-351-16006-0 1-281-09705-5 9786611097059 0-7546-8088-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (242 p.)
Disciplina	300
Soggetti	Civil society Social engineering Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [211]-221) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction -- Social engineering : survival strategies and techniques since the dawn of human civilization : an overview -- The creation of ideas and application of knowledge to social engineering -- Developing civil society the orthodox way : democratization and constitutional rule -- Legal proliferation and its implications -- The impact of human factor decay on the effectiveness of social engineering programs -- The failure of social engineering : the empirical evidence -- A human factor approach to developing civil society -- Transforming humanity : human factor principles of social engineering and community building -- The future of humanity.
Sommario/riassunto	Addressing an important issue from a new perspective, this provocative and challenging book illustrates how a positive human factor is essential not only to developing, but also industrialized countries. It is ideal as supplementary reading for classes in political sociology, criminal justice, development studies and philosophy.