

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910452189703321
Autore	Smith Linnea
Titolo	La doctora [[electronic resource] ] : the journal of an American doctor practicing medicine on the Amazon River // Linnea Smith
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Duluth, Minn., : Pfeifer-Hamilton Publishers, c1999
ISBN	0-8166-9540-7
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (266 p.)
Disciplina	610/.92 B
Soggetti	Physicians - Amazon River Region Tropical medicine - Amazon River Region Indians of South America - Medical care - Amazon River Region Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di contenuto	Table of Contents; 1 ""My Wife Can't Have Her Baby!""; Leap into the Unknown; Life on the Amazon; Jungle Doctor; Clinic Expansion; More Jungle Medicine; The End of the Beginning
Sommario/riassunto	In 1990, Dr. Linnea Smith went to Peru on an ecotourism vacation. She was so moved that she abandoned her thriving medical practice in Wisconsin to serve the Yagua Indians in the deepest part of the Amazon rainforest of Peru--alone. Taken straight from the pages of Dr. Smith's journal, La Doctora offers readers a rare glimpse into the suspense and drama of practicing medicine in a culture far removed from the sophisticated supplies and supports of 20th-century medicine. Learn how Dr. Smith evolved from a "strange white woman" to an adopted member of the indigenous community. Her story of advent