

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910452701303321
Autore	Bordonaro Karen <1959->
Titolo	Internationalization and the North American university library [[electronic resource] /] / Karen Bordonaro
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, Md., : Scarecrow Press, Inc., 2013
ISBN	0-8108-9184-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (181 p.)
Disciplina	027.6/30973
Soggetti	Academic libraries - Services to minorities - United States Academic libraries - Services to minorities - Canada International education - United States International education - Canada Libraries and colleges - United States Libraries and colleges - Canada Students, Foreign - United States Students, Foreign - Canada Education and globalization - United States Education and globalization - Canada Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Internationalization in higher education and the university library -- The role of the university library in internationalization : librarian voices -- The role of the university library in internationalization : international student voices -- The role of the university library in internationalization : international scholar voices -- The role of the university library in internationalization : American and Canadian perspectives -- The phenomenon of internationalization : points of convergence -- Putting it all together : informing the practice of academic librarianship.
Sommario/riassunto	This book investigates the role of the North American university library in internationalization from the perspectives of both librarians and international users. It also explores how librarians and international users personally experience the phenomenon of internationalization in higher education in the United States and Canada.

---