

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910453149503321
Autore	Goldney Robert D
Titolo	Suicide prevention [[electronic resource] /] / Robert D. Goldney
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Oxford ; ; New York, : Oxford University Press, 2008
ISBN	1-283-58183-3 9786613894281 0-19-155983-0
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (118 p.)
Collana	Oxford psychiatry library
Disciplina	616.85/8445
Soggetti	Suicide - Prevention Psychiatry Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Preface; Acknowledgements; Symbols and abbreviations; 1 Historical review; 2 Definitions; 3 Epidemiology; 4 Contributing factors to suicide; 5 Mental disorders and the biological substrate of suicide; 6 Psychosocial influences on suicidal behaviour; 7 An evidence based management approach; 8 Initial assessment and management; 9 Non-pharmacological approaches; 10 Pharmacological approaches; 11 Broad suicide prevention initiatives; 12 Bereavement after suicide; 13 Frequently asked questions; 14 Conclusion; 15 Appendix: Useful links; Index; A; B; C; D; E; F; G; H; I; J; K; L; M; N; O PQ; R; S; T; U; V; W; Y; Z
Sommario/riassunto	Suicide is a major cause of death worldwide, and its impact has only been fully appreciated in the past few decades. Historically it was viewed from a religious and moral perspective, but that gave way to broad sociological and biological theories, which sometimes seemed to be mutually exclusive. There is now a wealth of knowledge which has allowed an integration of these perspectives, which have varying importance in different contexts. Part of the Oxford Psychiatry Library, this pocketbook provides a review of the diverse theories about suicide and places them in perspective - not all theories

