Sommario/riassunto	At the beginning of World War II, Heinz August Luning, posing as a Jewish refugee, was sent to Cuba to spy for the Third Reich. Luning's assignment was to collect information about the United States and its allies and report back to Abwehr, the German foreign intelligence agency. The Caribbean waters Luning monitored were important to the Allies both for shipping and for deploying ships between the various fronts. Despite some early setbacks, Luning provided information on naval activities to the Germans. Ultimately, however, Luning was arrested and became the only Nazi spy executed in Latin
