

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910453529803321
Autore	Neuhouser Frederick
Titolo	Rousseau's theodicy of self-love [[electronic resource]] : evil, rationality, and the drive for recognition // Frederick Neuhouser
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Oxford ; New York, : Oxford University Press, 2008
ISBN	0-19-959205-5 1-281-77015-9 9786611770150 0-19-156221-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (292 p.)
Disciplina	128/.46
Soggetti	Self-acceptance Self-esteem Pride and vanity Good and evil Recognition (Psychology) Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 271-274) and index.
Nota di contenuto	The nature of amour-propre -- The dangers of amour-propre -- The varieties of inflamed amour-propre -- Why inflamed amour-propre is so common -- Social and domestic remedies -- The standpoint of reason -- Amour-propre's role in forming rational subjects.
Sommario/riassunto	Jean-Jacques Rousseau revolutionized our understanding of ourselves with his brilliant investigation of amour propre - the passion that drives humans to seek the esteem, approval admiration, or love - the recognition - of their fellow beings.