

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910454470403321
Autore	Flynt Wayne <1940->
Titolo	Alabama in the twentieth century [[electronic resource] /] / Wayne Flynt
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Tuscaloosa, : University of Alabama Press, c2004
ISBN	0-8173-8186-4
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (621 p.)
Collana	The modern South
Disciplina	976.1/063
Soggetti	Electronic books. Alabama History 20th century Alabama Civilization 20th century
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [545]-578) and index.
Nota di contenuto	In the beginning : the 1901 constitution -- Every man for himself : politics, Alabama style -- Selling Alabama : the economy -- Life from the bottom up : society -- Teaching the people : education -- On and off the pedestal : women -- Counting behind white folks : African Americans -- Fighting mad : Alabamians at war -- Beyond the game : the social significance of sports -- What would Jesus do? religion -- Plain and fancy : folk and elite culture.
Sommario/riassunto	An authoritative popular history that places the state in regional and national context. Alabama is a state full of contrasts. On the one hand, it has elected the lowest number of women to the state legislature of any state in the union; yet according to historians it produced two of the ten most important American women of the 20th century-Helen Keller and Rosa Parks. Its people are fanatically devoted to conservative religious values; yet they openly idolize tarnished football programs as the source of their heroes. Citizens who are puzzled by Alabama's maddening