

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910454526203321
Titolo	Empire lost [[electronic resource]] : France and its other worlds / / edited by Elisabeth Mudimbe-Boyi
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Lanham, MD, : Lexington Books, c2009
ISBN	1-282-49392-2 9786612493928 0-7391-3224-5
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (276 p.)
Collana	After the Empire: The Francophone World and Postcolonial France
Altri autori (Persone)	Mudimbe-boyiM. Elisabeth
Disciplina	303.48/2440171244
Soggetti	Electronic books. France Relations French-speaking countries French-speaking countries Relations France France Colonies Intellectual life France Intellectual life
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 207-221) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Overture / Assia Djebar -- Laicite in the French public school system: in the name of the law! / Mireille Le Breton -- Muslims in France: history under the carpet / Jocelyne Dakhli -- Beyond postcolonialism: globalization and postcolonial minorities in France / Alec G. Hargreaves -- We, the virtual francophone multitudes? Neobarbarisms and microencounters / Mireille Rosello -- "No green pastures": the African Americanization of France / Tyler Stovall -- A poetics of relationality: Victor Segalen's Steles / Yvonne Hsieh -- Whose other? The centrality of language to identity and representations in Roumain's Gouverneurs de la rosee / Kathy Richman -- Shadowing Assia Djebar / Andre Benhaim -- L'esprit de corps: French civilization and the death of the colonized soldier / Karl Ashoka Britto -- Franco-African artistic and cultural cooperation / Jean-Loup Amselle -- Conclusion: My mother tongue, my paternal languages / Michel Serres.
Sommario/riassunto	With global promotion of la Francophonie, the relation between the different constituencies of the world's French-speaking regions needs to be reexamined and debated. This book questions ingrained assumptions, pointing out the complexity of a never-ending relationship between francophone communities after the Empire.
