

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910454987803321
Autore	York Neil Longley
Titolo	Turning the world upside down [[electronic resource] ] : the War of American Independence and the problem of empire / / Neil Longley York
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Westport, Conn., : Praeger, 2003
ISBN	1-282-40914-X 9786612409141 0-313-05955-1
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (209 p.)
Collana	Studies in military history and international affairs
Disciplina	973.3/11
Soggetti	Balance of power - History - 18th century Imperialism - History - 18th century National characteristics, American Political messianism - United States Electronic books. United States History Revolution, 1775-1783 Influence United States Politics and government 1775-1783 Philosophy United States Territorial expansion
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Contents; Acknowledgments; Preface; 1 Imperial Competition and the Rise of British America; 2 Revolt Without Revolution; 3 Revolution Embraced, Independence Declared; 4 The War as Great Power Conflict; 5 New Nation, New Empire; Suggested Reading; Index
Sommario/riassunto	York illustrates how Revolutionary Americans founded an empire as well as a nation, and how they saw the two as inseparable. While they had rejected Britain and denounced power politics, they would engage in realpolitik and mimic Britain as they built their empire of liberty. England had become Great Britain as an imperial nation, and Britons believed that their empire promised much to all fortunate enough to be part of it. Colonial Americans shared that belief and sense of pride. But as clashing interests and changing identities put them at odds with the prevailing view in London, dissident c

---