

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910455526403321
Autore	Smith J. Douglas
Titolo	Managing white supremacy [[electronic resource]] : race, politics, and citizenship in Jim Crow Virginia / / J. Douglas Smith
Pubbl/distr/stampa	Chapel Hill, : University of North Carolina Press, c2002
ISBN	0-8078-6226-6
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (425 p.)
Disciplina	305.896/0730755/09042
Soggetti	White people - Virginia - Politics and government - 20th century School integration - Massive resistance movement - Virginia Elite (Social sciences) - Virginia - History - 20th century African Americans - Civil rights - Virginia - History - 20th century African Americans - Segregation - Virginia - History - 20th century Citizenship - Virginia - History - 20th century Electronic books. Virginia Race relations Virginia Race relations Political aspects Virginia Politics and government 1865-1950
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Based on author's thesis (doctoral)--University of Virginia.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. [371]-395) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Introduction : separation by consent -- A fine discrimination indeed : party politics and white supremacy from emancipation to world war -- Opportunities found and lost : race and politics after world war -- Redefining race : the campaign for racial purity -- Educating citizens or servants? : Hampton Institute and the divided mind of white Virginians -- Little tyrannies and petty skullduggeries -- A melancholy distinction : Virginia's response to lynching -- The erosion of paternalism : confronting the limits of managed race relations -- Travelling in opposite directions -- Too radical for us : the passing of managed race relations -- Epilogue : the making of massive resistance.
Sommario/riassunto	Drawing on private correspondence and official documents, this text traces the erosion of white elite paternalism in Jim Crow Virginia. It reveals a fluidity in southern racial politics in the decades between

World War I and the supreme Court's 1954 Brown v. Board of Education decision.
