

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910455679103321
Autore	Pizzi William T. <1943->
Titolo	Trials without truth [[electronic resource] ] : why our system of criminal trials has become an expensive failure and what we need to do to rebuild it // William T. Pizzi
Pubbl/distr/stampa	New York ; ; London, : New York University Press, c1999
ISBN	0-8147-6870-9 0-585-42497-7
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (269 p.)
Disciplina	345.7305
Soggetti	Criminal justice, Administration of - United States Trial practice - United States Criminal courts - United States Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references (p. 235-248) and index.
Nota di contenuto	Soccer, football, and trial systems -- Technicalities and truth : the exclusionary rule -- Truth and the amount of evidence available at trial -- Trial system in trouble -- Discovering who we are : a look at four different trial systems -- Criminal trials in the United States: trials without truth -- Trials without truth : weak trial judges -- The Supreme Court : an institutional failure -- Weak trial system : who benefits? -- Juries : the loss of public confidence -- Starting down the path to reform.
Sommario/riassunto	Reginald Denny. O. J. Simpson. Colin Ferguson. Louise Woodward: all names that have cast a spotlight on the deficiencies of the American system of criminal justice. Yet, in the wake of each trial that exposes shocking behavior by trial participants or results in counterintuitive rulings-often with perverse results-the American public is reassured by the trial bar that the case is not ""typical"" and that our trial system remains the best in the world. William T. Pizzi here argues that what the public perceives is in fact exactly what the United States has: a trial system that places far too mu

