

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910456028503321
Titolo	Researching social and economic change : the uses of household panel studies // edited by David Rose
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London ; ; New York : , : Routledge, , 2000
ISBN	1-135-36353-6 1-280-40677-1 9786610406777 0-203-50108-X 0-203-23027-2
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (332 p.)
Collana	Social research today
Altri autori (Persone)	RoseDavid <1947 Feb. 17->
Disciplina	302/.01/5195
Soggetti	Panel analysis Household surveys Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	Book Cover; Title; Contents; List of figures; List of tables; Notes on contributors; Acknowledgements; Introducing household panels; Household panel studies: an overview; Panel surveys: adding the fourth dimension; Using panel studies to understand household behaviour and well-being; Panel data quality; Panel attrition; Weighting in household panel surveys; Dealing with measurement error in panel analysis; Tangled webs of family relationships: untangling them with survey data; Dissemination issues for panel studies: metadata and documentation; Panel data analyses Dynamics of poverty and determinants of poverty transitions: results from the Dutch socioeconomic panel Low-income dynamics in 1990's Britain; A new approach to poverty dynamics; Using panel data to analyse household and family dynamics; Using panel surveys to study migration and residential mobility; Bibliography; Index
Sommario/riassunto	In this user-friendly introduction, European and American experts in the field join forces to explain what panel studies can achieve and to illustrate some of the potential pitfalls in the construction and analysis of panel data. Household panel studies provide one of the most significant national and international resources for analysing social and economic change. This is an essential and accessible introduction for those contemplating the use of panel studies for the first time and will be an invaluable resource for both practising researchers and the commissioners of research.
