

1. Record Nr.	UNINA9910456486303321
Titolo	The second century of psychoanalysis : evolving perspectives on therapeutic action / / edited by Michael J. Diamond and Christopher Christian
Pubbl/distr/stampa	London : , : Karnac, , 2011
ISBN	0-429-90790-7 0-429-48313-9 1-283-13737-2 9786613137371 1-84940-898-X
Descrizione fisica	1 online resource (395 p.)
Collana	CIPS series on the boundaries of psychoanalysis
Altri autori (Persone)	ChristianChristopher DiamondMichael J. <1944->
Disciplina	150.19/5 616.8917
Soggetti	Psychoanalysis Psychoanalysis - History - 20th century Electronic books.
Lingua di pubblicazione	Inglese
Formato	Materiale a stampa
Livello bibliografico	Monografia
Note generali	Description based upon print version of record.
Nota di bibliografia	Includes bibliographical references and index.
Nota di contenuto	section 1. Contextualizing therapeutic action -- section 2. Conflict, fantasy, and insight in therapeutic action -- section 3. Relational experience and mutative dynamics -- section 4. Mental experience and therapeutic action : unconscious communication, internalization, and non-verbal processes -- section 5. Reflections : psychoanalytic dogma and flexibility.
Sommario/riassunto	This book focuses on the question of the theory of therapeutic action underlying the multiple perspectives in psychoanalysis. The question of how psychoanalysis effects therapeutic change and the methods by which this change is achieved is answered from the perspectives of: ego psychology and modern conflict theory, classical theory, contemporary object relations theory and neo-Kleinian theory, attachment theory, and self psychological theory, as well as total composite theory and pluralistic perspectives. The volume concludes with an exploration of how these theories of therapeutic action div
